People are envious of the success of large companies and individuals such as Microsoft and Bill Gates, respectively. This should not cloud the vision of the Department of Justice. Do not break up Microsoft. Leave the company alone, solve real crime, and go about your business.

Breaking up any company that has been made large and prosperous from people voting with their wallets is socialism. There are no barriers that Microsoft competitors have to surmount that have not been surmounted before. They need more creativity as they lack ideas. Microsoft's competition has not been outlawed as with the U.S. Postal Service and First Class mail; it is merely uncreative.

Leave Microsoft alone and go after the real criminals.
